Press Release

“Atlantis launches new information newsletter for Interior Designers”

28th August 2007

In the approach to Decorex 2007 , Atlantis AV Solutions, has just announced the start of a new communications programme developed to help the Interior Design community and give practical advice on all aspects of audio visual problems.

Atlantis, best-known for its “metamorphic frames”, a creative way of hiding flat plasma screens behind a moving framed canvas or painting, has recently developed a comprehensive consultancy and installation service for all types of audio visual systems and equipment

The company now offers a one-stop advisory service for:

Hidden Television Solutions : Home Cinema :

Multi-room Audio and Television : Lighting Control Systems :

Quotes Hugh Roche, Managing Director

“It became clear to me at last year’s Decorex Exhibition, that there was a great deal of mystery surrounding the whole area of AV solutions within the Interior Design fraternity.”

“ Our Newsletter will go out every six weeks to all Interior Designers with facts on all aspects of AV together with practical help and guidance.”

“We are sure that Interior Designers will see this as a useful communication, which we will commit to update regularly.”
